Claude Gervaise
(fl Paris, 1540–60)

Dancing ♩ = c.112

The musical score is written for two guitars, labeled I and II. The time signature is 3/4. The tempo is marked 'Dancing' with a quarter note equal to approximately 112 beats per minute. The score is divided into three systems. The first system (measures 1-5) begins with a mezzo-forte (mf) dynamic. The second system (measures 6-10) includes a 'sul pont.' instruction and a mezzo-piano (mp) dynamic. The third system (measures 11-15) includes a 'nat.' instruction and a forte (f) dynamic. The score concludes with a double bar line and repeat dots.

Claude Gervaise was a French musician of the mid-16th century who edited, arranged and composed four of a series of six volumes of dance music for instrumental ensemble, entitled Danceries. The sixth volume, published in 1555, which Gervaise composed himself, includes a 'Pavanne passemaize et Gaillarde'. The title indicates a pairing, typical of the period, of a duple-time pavane and a livelier triple-time galliard, both of them with harmonies resembling the chord scheme known in the Renaissance as the 'passamezzo'. This is an arrangement for two guitars of the Gaillarde. In the exam, the candidate should play part I.
