

B:2

The Echo

No. 14 from Mayflowers, Op. 61

Theodor Oesten
(1813-70)

Pastorale [$\text{♩} = c.96$]

Theodor Oesten, a German composer and pianist, studied in Berlin and later became popular as a music teacher. He wrote a large number of piano pieces with attractive titles.

The opening motive recurs in b. 5, and then, in a varied form, in b. 9. For the echoes, the composer uses not only f/pp contrasts but also transposition to a higher octave. The performance direction 'Pastorale' suggests that these echoes take place in the countryside.

Source: May-flowers...25 short, very easy and amusing pieces for the piano forte, Op. 61 (London: Robert Cocks & Co., 1850)

© 2004 by The Associated Board of the Royal Schools of Music
Reproduced from Encore, Book 1, compiled by Karen Marshall (ABRSM)